Growing Aches and Pains.
Mrs. Josie Sumner, Bremond, Texas, writes, April 15, 1902: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for three years. I would not be without it in the house. I have used it on my little girl for growing pains and aches in her knees. It cured her right away. I have also used it for frost bitten feet, with good success. 'It is the best liniment I ever used.'" 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Dr. S. E. Woods, druggist.

An Improved Ague Tonic.
More than thirty years ago Dr. R. A. Armistead, a physician who lived and practiced in the malaria districts of the south, put on the market a remedy he had used in private practice with great success.

This remedy is now the property of W. M. Akin & Son, Evansville, Ind., and is sold by them as "Dr. R. A. Armistead's Ague Tonic." While it never fails to give relief in stubborn cases, its principal use is to prevent the disease, by toning up the entire muscular and nervous system and stimulating the circulation, as well as counteracting the malaria poison.

Its timely use will benefit old and young. It contains no poisonous drugs, and is an excellent tonic that fortifies the system against disease and prevents it gaining a foothold. Druggists, generally, handle this remedy, but where they do not it can be obtained from the above firm.

The Charity Entertainment.

The entertainment given last Friday night for the benefit of the little cripple boy, Leo Stimel, was well attended by our people. The exercises were of the best and each song, piece of music and act was well rendered and was carefully selected to suit the occasion. At the close of the exercises Col. Birmingham made a few remarks and explained why the entertainment was given. He thanked the audience for their liberal support.

We think every one who assisted in any way to assist the little orphan feels amply repaid, and all certainly did a work of practical charity. About $100 was raised to pay for the operation performed on the boy. He seems to be doing well.

ENTERPRISE, INGENUITY AND ORIGINALITY.

Say something against Lax-Fos in the presence of those who have taken it and you'll be sorry. Every person using Lax-Fos will tell you an interesting story of how it cured them.

Lax-Fos is the very latest example of medical enterprise, ingenuity and originality. Those who have been sick, and others, say, Lax-Fos is the best medicine made. To make it a little better than any other remedy even though it cost more is an investment and not an expense to the S. H. Winstead Medicine Co. No advertisement is equal to having people say Lax-Fos is the best. To succeed in any business give the consumer more than you promise. That is done in Lax-Fos. It cures indigestion, constipation, kidney and liver trouble. Its good effects are felt at once. Take no substitute. The genuine is sold on the money back plan by druggists everywhere.
For Sale by DR. S. E. WOODS, the Druggist.
